

Gales, Waves Strike Central Carolinas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Gales and mammoth waves, fore-runners of hurricane Helene, struck the central Carolinas coastline before dawn today as the storm packing 1 1/2-mile-an-hour winds aimed for a landfall expected before noon (EST).

The weather bureau said Helene at 7 a.m. (EST) was about 40 miles southeast of this beach resort, traveling in a northerly direction 10 to 15 m.p.h.

The advisory said this would indicate that the big storm center would come ashore near or just northeast of Myrtle Beach late in the forenoon.

But as the storm's direction shifted slightly in the night, sea-side points in North Carolina, especially in the Wilmington area near the mouth of the Cape Fear River, hurried emergency preparations.

Wrightsville Beach, 10 miles east of Wilmington, was flooded shortly after daylight, and at Carolina Beach, 18 miles southeast of Wilmington, waves nine to 10 feet high burst over a pier. Winds at the Carolina beaches then had attained 70 m.p.h. velocities, just five miles an hour short of hurricane force.

Charleston, the South Carolina port city 85 miles to the south, had battered down in the night in preparation for Helene's main attack, but the storm's directional shift permitted Charleston to escape the full force.

Hurricane warnings, black and red banners, spanked in the winds northward to North Carolina's treacherous Cape Hatteras, continuing and southward to Charleston. Beaches along the 300-mile coast from Charleston to Cape Hatteras were largely deserted.

Pentagon Says Nationalists Strong Enough

By WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The top-level Pentagon estimate today is that Nationalist China is strong enough to throw back any Red Chinese invasion attempt against Quemoy without help from U.S. combat forces.

Conversely, the Pentagon believes there is no certainty that Nationalist aircraft could knock out Red guns on the China mainland if they tried.

This official assessment was based on present circumstances. Authorities said it could change if any of the factors changed—for example, if Red China went all out to conquer Quemoy without regard to frightful military losses, or the danger of touching off a nuclear war.

The estimate became known as the gloom pervading the Formosa Strait crisis for a month appeared to be lifting somewhat.

Here were some of the hopeful signs, although officials freely conceded that the crisis was far from over and that Red China could upset the situation by a reckless act:

1. The Nationalist government on Formosa announced the Red blockade of the offshore Quemoy was broken. U.S. officials were quick to enthusiastically agree.

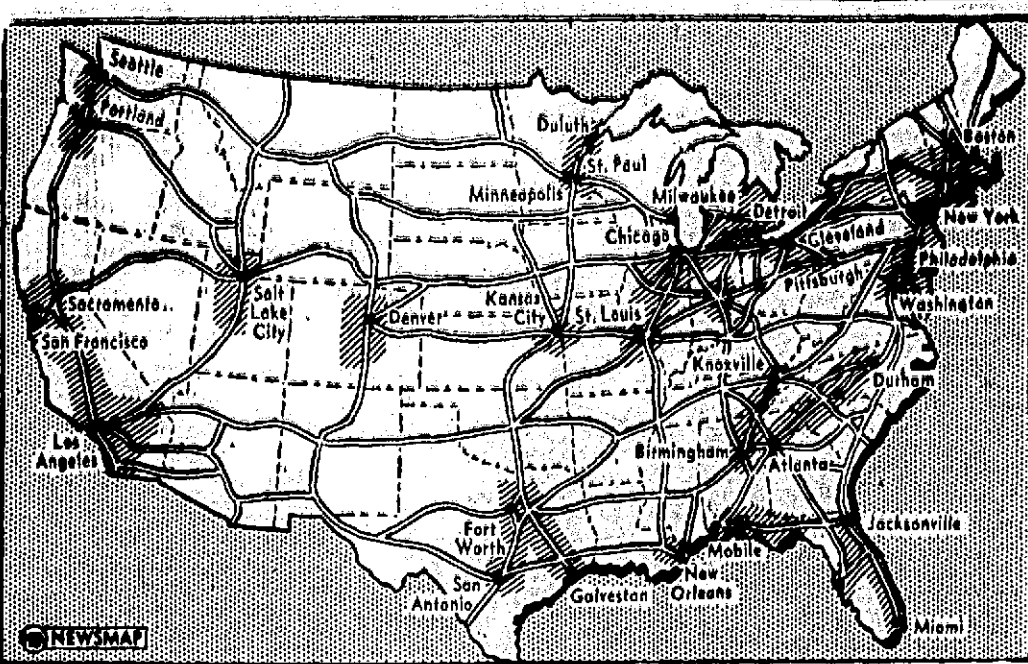

2. The Nationalists claimed 52 of their jets, without losses, shot down 10 and possibly six more out of 100 Communist jets in aerial combat over the strait. This was hailed as another demonstration of Nationalist air superiority.

3. With the United Nations having postponed for another year any action on sealing Red China, there was hope Red China might now ease up on its bombarding in the strait. This hope was founded on belief that Peking's new threats to Quemoy were designed, in major part at least, to grab attention for its U.N. bid.

4. The U.S. Red China ambassador talks at Warsaw, meanwhile, were scheduled to go into their fourth session today. Ambassadors Jacob Beam and Wang Ping-nan seemed no closer to agreement on safeguarding Far East peace. Beam was reported still demanding a ceasefire with Wong holding out for complete U.S. withdrawal from the Far East area.

Weather

Arkansas: Temperatures 1 to 3 degrees below normal. Normal minimum 58 to 72. Normal maximum 80 to 87. Cold Arkansas. Precipitation generally heavy in showers and thunderstorms through about 10 p.m.

INTERURBIA OF 1980—America's population is growing rapidly, autos are giving it increasing mobility, aided by the new Interstate Highway network. This combination has led to predictions of a new kind of United States within the next generation — a land of great "strip" cities stretching along the highway arteries. Newsmap above, based on data from Business Horizons magazine, shows how the face of this changed America may look. Already a 600-mile-long interurbia stretches from Maine to Virginia. To the west, an even more tremendous series of connecting strip cities is shaping up. These would connect the Middle West and the Great Lakes with the eastern seaboard.

Top Ten 'Constitution' Week Essays Were All Very Good

By MARY ANITA LASETER

"What the Constitution Means to Me" was the subject of a recent essay contest among students of the History III class of Mrs. Roy Allison at Hope High School.

The contest, conducted during Constitution Week, September 17-24, was sponsored by the John Cain Chapter of the D. A. R. Fortunately, I didn't have to judge them for they were all excellent, and demonstrated how well the youth of today can think about a serious topic.

But, I was privileged to read the top ten essays. They made me realize that in the present day crisis, Americans should read and try to understand more fully what is set forth in the writing that Patsy Burroughs said is "our most important governmental document."

When was the last time (and perhaps the only time) that you read our Constitution? Most people would answer, "When I was in school." Too often the only exceptions are people in the field of Law.

We should be more familiar with it, for Tony Dan Thurman explains that the Constitution is a "guarantee to a way of life which is dear to the heart of each of us. So, should we not delve deeper into this subject, just as each of us would demand to know more about the guarantee that goes with some precious item we have purchased?"

One of the many rights which Larry Patterson called to the reader's attention was that "I will hold as many rights and will be treated the same under the eyes of the law as anyone rich or poor." But Doyette Collins added "that means fairness to all who live by these laws. The violator of these laws is definitely guilty but he is given every chance that a person would have who has not violated them."

As Sandra Russell wrote, "The Constitution means different things to different people." For that reason Joe Crain pointed out that it "declares religious freedom for all citizens and people in the United States" and Johnny Watkins said, "I feel it is the reason we have the highest standard of living of any country in the world."

Too many of us take too many of our Constitutional Rights for granted, and according to Dorothy Ball, "We don't realize how free we are until we hear from another country."

Still, we could know more, and in knowing your Constitution a person knows his democratic rights and realizes how lucky he is to be an American," Teddy Jones explained.

Work, thought, and hardships, as well as blood sweat, and tears went into this writing, and Byron Smiley feels "we should say a prayer of thanksgiving for our forefathers who made it possible to enjoy freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, and freedom to live peacefully as we desire."

Nazarene Churches Start Convention

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — The

Northern Arkansas District of the Church of the Nazarene began a 2-day convention here yesterday. Elders' orders were conferred on three ministers in ceremonies last night. They are the Rev. Jewell McKinnon of Russellville, Rev. Viola Underwood of Fayetteville and Rev. John Rogers of Conway.

Another action the convention elected the Rev. Harvey Rabbitt of Beebe as secretary and the Rev. Elbert Tyler of Conway as treasurer.

The Rev. James W. Hendrickson of Conway, District superintendent, reported a membership of 2,875 in the district.

Crime Shows an Upward Trend

crime shot upward across the nation during the first half of this year, although there was a slight drop in murders and aggravated assaults.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported Thursday that information from metropolitan areas indicate a 12.3 per cent rise in major crime in the first six months of 1958 as compared with the corresponding period in 1957.

This Hoover said points to a possible new major crime record in 1958.

Increases were reported in robberies, burglaries, major larcenies, rape and auto theft.

Leaders Talk About Gains to Expect

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrial leaders today are asking: How big a gain in business can we expect? Some brave ones are already answering.

If the turn in the economy means better sales prospects, they need to pinpoint the share they can expect and to set the production and marketing plans that will capture it.

Coast-to-coast telephone interviews today with leaders in key industries and some government spending experts show how the thinking is running.

It adds up largely to a moderate to good advance this fall in durables and soft goods, with 1959 prospects brighter. The interviews highlight a special marketing conference here of the American Management Assn.

Malcolm P. Ferguson, president of Bendix Aviation in Detroit, stresses the government's role. He foresees "a four to five year period of defense expenditures substantially at the present rate and with increased emphasis on new weapons systems and research and development." But he looks for "little or no increase in the volume of procurement of so-called conventional equipment and soft goods."

In this connection the Department of Commerce is just out with a prediction that procurement contracts to be signed by the Defense Department this fiscal year will reach 19 billion dollars, up a billion from last year.

Robert S. Stevenson, president of Allis-Chalmers of West Allis, Wis., says 1958 is showing decided strength in the farm equipment industry, which left the recession ahead of most others, and is recovering faster. A big help, he says, is a 5 to 6 per cent rise in farm income.

Arthur Rosenbaum, manager of the Economic Research Division of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, thinks national retail sales of soft goods will be only 1 per cent higher for a 4 to 5 per cent gain for next spring over the previous year's figures. Women's and children's apparel show a stronger sales trend than men's clothing. Retail competition is holding down the pressures for price increases, he says.

A. B. Larson, president of Cray Valley, Inc. of San Francisco, reports the paper industry operating around 85 per cent of capacity, although production is only 2 per cent below the 1956 high. He says: "The excess capacity comes from substantial new facilities started several years ago in expectation of increasing growth but completed amid a recession."

Okla. Bank Is Robbed on Friday

VIAN, Okla. (AP) — Two roughly dressed bank robbers "cleaned out" the vault of the Vian State Bank today and escaped in a 1953 Nash automobile commandeered from a Vian citizen.

Bank Vice-President S. W. Armstrong said he did not know, pending a check how much money the holdup men got but the assistant cashier, Allene Ross, said they took all of the big money from the vault.

Vian is a town of about 1,000 some 40 miles from Fort Smith, Ark.

The robbery happened at 10:30 a.m. (CST) when two young men wearing coveralls and other overalls with a bright plaid shirt walked into the bank waving guns.

"One of them forced all of us in the bank to lie on the floor," Miss Ross said.

"The other went into Mr. Armstrong's office and forced him to open the vault."

The bandits were not masked although "one pulled a scarf, worn about his neck, over his face."

After scooping up the money the robbers left with Armstrong's car keys intending to use his automobile to flee. When they failed to start it quickly, they jumped out and forced a man sitting in his parked car to get out and fled in his car.

Road blocks were set up in the area.

Union Warns Against Any Violence

By CHARLES C. CAIN

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. today accused the United Auto Workers Union of staging what it said amounts to a general strike in advance of the Tuesday morning deadline set by the union.

Vice President Louis Stinson, head of the GM bargaining team, told newsmen the company believed the series of highway-run walkouts which idled over 45,000 workers at 20 GM plants across the country today were condoned by UAW leaders.

Walter Reuther, UAW president, replied that GM simply was reaping the fruits of action in canceling out contracts several months ago when they knew such action would result in a large amount of resentment among the workers.

The union Thursday night warned its members to avoid picket-line incidents. Two such outbreaks were reported yesterday on the eve of Reuther's personal entry into the last-ditch talks.

GM, biggest of the auto makers and with 250,000 UAW members among its 325,000-man workforce, gave no indication it planned to sweeten its offer of a three-year contract with concessions almost identical to those to which Ford and the UAW settled Sept. 17.

Chrysler, which like GM has over 28,000 workers idle in local walkouts, Ford reported nearly 12,000 still out in disputes over local work conditions.

The seriousness of the work stoppages was emphasized when Chrysler announced it had postponed public introduction of all 1959 models because of what it termed the "serious labor situation."

Washburn to Open Hdqs. on 3% Tax Fight

Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of The Star, told Hope Rotary club at its luncheon Friday noon he expects to set up state headquarters at Little Rock next month and organize a League of Voters to cut the state sales tax from 3 to 2 1/2% in the referendum in the November general election.

Washburn, sponsor of the petition to refer the extra cent sales tax to a popular vote, said a League of Voters is necessary because in two state-wide petition campaigns "I found there is no organization to speak for the individual citizen."

All existing organizations seem to be dedicated to defending their special interests, he continued. "There will be a League of Voters whose special interest will be to look after and protect the little guy at the grocery counter who buys $15 worth of food for his household of youngsters and then pays an outrageous 45c extra for state sales tax."

Washburn told the Rotarians that Arkansas' 3% sales tax is one of the harshest in American history. California and Florida have a 3% tax, he said, but both states exempt groceries and medicine. And California, like Arkansas, he continued, is voting this November on the question of reducing its 3% tax to 2%.

Push-Button Tax

"Although the Arkansas sales tax was enacted originally for the schools in 1935," the newspaper publisher said, "with the passing years it has been turned into a push-button 'cure-all' that not only has failed to help the schools permanently but is viciously robbing the poor and has nearly destroyed our property assessing system."

"He charged that the sales tax has been used to reduce property taxes rather than serving its original purpose of aiding the public schools. Looking at his own business property," Washburn said, "After 30 years this Hope's publisher I give you these audit figures from Star Publishing Co. regarding local taxes:

"Our first year in business, 1929, we paid a tax bill of $256.03 — entirely for machinery and office equipment; at that time we owned no real estate."

"Adjusted to today's 33 1/2c dollar that would mean, if we owned no additional property, an adjusted tax bill today of $789.89."

"But our actual local tax bill paid in 1957 was only $636.00."

"Yet we bought a building for the newspaper in 1932, tore it down in 1935 and built a modern air-conditioned structure for Hope Star."

"As far as total tax dollars are concerned, that's a good look at what building next time you walk down S. Walnut St. because actually the tax record says there's no building there at all."

"And yet the little woman now at our grocery counter started off in 1935 paying no sales tax on groceries and medicine. In 1941 she had to pay 2% on groceries and medicine — and today our enlightened state is taking 45c on top of a $15 inflation-priced grocery bill."

"My story about my newspaper's building is verified in all the assessment totals. The latest total for Hempstead county is approximately 11 millions — yet 30 years ago our county had a total of 10 millions. And the total for all Arkansas is only fractionally above the total of 1929 — notwithstanding the fact that inflation has cut the dollar to one-third its 1929 value and raised land values to the highest in history."

Gazette and School Lobby

Washburn blasted the Arkansas Gazette and the school lobby for cowardice and stupidity in abolishing the 18-mill tax ceiling with Amendment 40 of 1948, and for a second error in 1956 when both the Gazette and the school forces "welched" on a legislative deal to restore the tax ceiling at 30 mills.

The "package deal," Washburn recalled, was passage of Act 153 in the 1955 legislature to force property assessments up to 20% of true property value, with Proposed Constitutional Amendment No. 43 to be submitted to the people in the 1958 general election, restoring a millage ceiling at 30. But pressure from the Gazette and the political school crowd defeated No. 43, he continued.

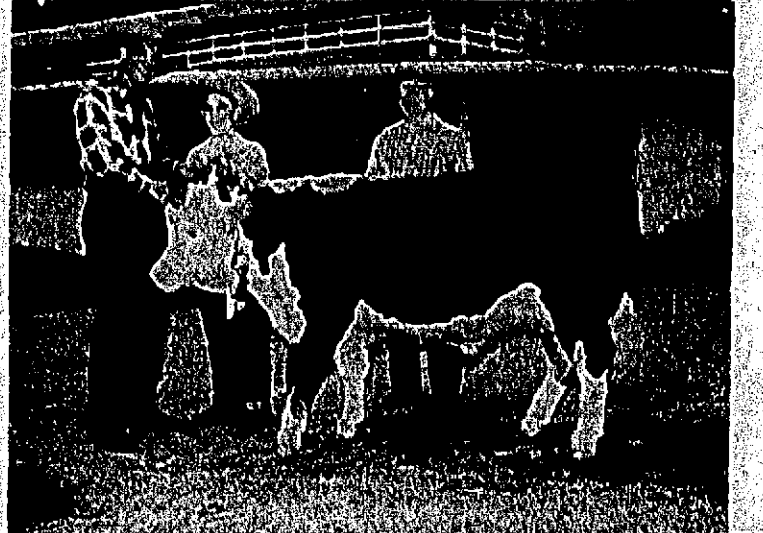

"How," Washburn asked the Rotarians, "can you expect property owners to cooperate wholeheartedly with the assessing authorities when they have no protection whatsoever against the public being stung by inflated property tax rates?"

He charged the Gazette and the political school crowd with bad faith and ignorance of sound business conduct.

Has to Be Compulsion

"We can't reform this situation voluntarily — there has to be compulsion. And that means cutting down the supply of money leaving the state, and making the home folks put their local government house in order — trusting that public pressure will compel restoration of some reasonable

Safeway Purchases Prize Calf

The Hope Safeway Store paid $459 for the calf on 45c lb. However, Young Womack reserved the right to take his calf to the state show. Richard "Sonny" Roberts and Johnny Stewart were auctioneers for the sale.

Aide Admits Governors Are Scared

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A governor's aide said in his hotel room reading the news about the schools in Arkansas and Virginia, where the fight over integration has closed classrooms.

Instruction by television, private classes meeting in private homes and churches, children transferring to schools in other cities.

"You know," said the aide, "some of these governors are a lot more worried than they admit."

This has been a distinct impression at the Southern Governors' Conference.

Publicly, some governors said that the fact that schools actually have been closed in two states to prevent Negroes from enrolling has had less impact in the South. This correspondent polled the delegations at the conference, particularly from states in the Deep South on the question. The answers never varied:

"Haven't noticed any particular reaction in our state."

But privately, there was an undertone of uneasiness.

The events in Virginia and Arkansas appear to have had two primary effects on public opinion: 1. They have hardened the determination of many segregationists to hold the line, some what Continued on Page Two limit on millage. Which is to say, the sales tax must come down from 3 to 2%.

"As it stands now, our southwest corner and most of Arkansas are carrying not only our own local tax burden but also paying an excessive sales tax to take care of the great landed interests of East Arkansas — where county assessments run as low as only 7 or 8% of true property value."

"Therefore I will open Little Rock headquarters next month and endeavor to organize a Voters League to rally support for the sales tax cut-back in the November general election."

Washburn was introduced by Roy Anderson on a program arranged by Guy D. Bayne.

Two Birthday Parties Enough

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Two

birthday parties a year are enough for the five members of the Edmond R. Sun family of Conway. The newest Sun, Nancy Lee, was born yesterday. Also born on Sept. 25 were her 24-year-old father; her mother, Nancy Jo, 23, and her brother, Mike, 6.

Dale, 2 was born on Sept. 6. Sun is a staff sergeant in the Air Force currently stationed at Sondrestrom, Greenland.

Cotton Pickers Wanted in Bradley Area

Recent rains have caused a critical shortage of harvest hands for cotton picking in the Bradley, Ark. area of Lafayette County. Today Jones, manager of the local employment office said that some workers were being hailed from Hope each day but free housing is available for families desiring to move to the Bradley district.

Wages prevail at $2 to $2.50 per cwt. with sacks, transportation and housing furnished.

Truckers interested in hauling workers from Hope or workers desiring to move to make the cotton harvest should call or contact the Employment Security Division Office at 114 South Elm Street, Hope, Ark. in order that job arrangements can be completed.

Helena Bridge Bids Finally Ready

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bids for construction of the long-awaited Helena bridge will be sought by the Arkansas and Mississippi Highway Commissions today.

Joint advertisements will be made by the commissions. The bids are to be opened simultaneously at Little Rock and Jackson, Miss., Nov. 25.

Contract for the 14 million dollar span across the Mississippi River between Helena and Friar's Point, Miss., will be broken up into seven parts. The contract segments range from preparation of approaches to construction of toll collection facilities.

Mississippi Highway Commission will provide one million dollars; five millions will be made available in federal funds and the state of Arkansas will float an eight million dollar bond issue.

Arkansas bonds will be retired from bridge toll revenues. Officials of the Arkansas Highway Commission said last night that the contract for construction might not be let before March 1 because of various technicalities.

The Arkansas bond issue is being underwritten by the federal Community Facilities Administration.

Would Regulate Oil Imports

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) said last night he would like to see oil imports regulated by law.

In a speech to the Louisiana Petroleum Division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Assn., Long said he doesn't think a voluntary oil import program would prove adequate.

"I would very much like to see us put into effect a plan carefully drawn into law which does not leave the fate of the oil and gas industry at the discretion of the president of the United States," Long said.

The senator also touched on politics. He advised association members not to place all their bets on the Republican Party.

"The oil and gas industry has a great number of good friends among the Democrats but it will need friends among the Democrats even more after the next election."

He predicted his party would have a majority of at least 12 in the Senate and 70 in House.

British Advocate Compromise and Settlement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — British officials are reported advocating a long range compromise settlement of the Formosa dispute under which Nationalist-held coastal islands eventually would go to Red China.

The British government also was reported today to be advising the United States against bringing the Formosa crisis before the United Nations in the immediate session. London officials were to believe the best hope for a peaceful settlement lies in diplomatic negotiations rather than U. N. debate.

According to information current in U. S. Official quarters, British leaders think the first requirement in any successful negotiation is agreement on a cease fire. On this point British policy supports the stand taken by the United States in talks with the Red Chinese at Warsaw during the past two weeks.

The British were reported as believing an eventual settlement should provide for yielding the Nationalist-held offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu to the Communists. Formosa itself, they feel, could be put under the mantle of the United Nations through some device such as a U. N. trusteeship.

The result of this kind of settlement could be a line down the middle of the Formosa Strait to separate U. S. backed Nationalist power and the forces of Communist China.

Such a solution could run contrary to the presently strong positions of both the Chinese Communists and the Chinese Nationalist regime on Formosa.

Baptist Church Well Attended in Moscow

By BEVERLY DEEPE

Written for The Associated Press

The wooden benches were invisible under the crowd. People stood on the stairways. They were packed six deep in the side door which opened onto a pile of rubble.

This was a Baptist church service in Moscow which I was visiting as a member on the U. S. U.S.S.R. student exchange. Two other members and Victor, our Russian translator, came to church with me.

An elderly man in a dark gray suit at the church door motioned us upstairs to the balcony. All the seats in the church were filled, except for a long narrow visitors' bench next to the railing.

The old women among the 1,500 worshippers wore black or brown dresses with white or printed bandanas. Only three wore dark straw hats with simple trim.

Hope Downs Bucks 26-7 In 4AA Scrap

Boothe, Graves, Butler Score for Hustling Cats

By CHARLES WYLIE JR.

Coach John Pierce's Hope Bobcats journeyed to Smackover last night and rolled up a 26-7 victory over the Buckaroos. This was an important 4-AA football game.

Immediately the Bobcats took advantage of a Buckaroo fumble on the forty-eight yard line. The next play quarterback David Watkins flipped a pass to halfback Bill Butler who side-stepped four Buckaroos and scampered 52 yards for a touchdown. Fullback Don Boothe's conversion was good. At the end of the first quarter the Bobcats led 7-0.

In the second quarter the Bobcats marched 74 yards in 17 plays for a touchdown. Halfback John Graves ripped the last four yards for the TD. As the half ended the Bobcats led 13-0.

At the half both bands gave a fine show.

Again in the third quarter the Bobcats took advantage of a Smackover fumble on the 17. Two plays later heavy-hard-hitting fullback Don Boothe ripped off 4 yards for the touchdown.

In the fourth quarter the Bobcats drove 54 yards in 13 plays for a touchdown. Don Boothe scampered the last 2 yards for the T.D. Boothe's P.A.T. was good.

Smackover's lone tally came in the fourth quarter when they marched 47 yards in 13 plays. Kinder plunged the last two yards for the T.D. Barbaree conversion was good.

Around 500 loyal Hope fans journeyed to Smackover to see the Bobcats overcome the Buckaroos in the mud and rain.

Coach Pierce said, "It was tremendous team effort and every man played his position well."

The Bobcats met the Texarkana Razorbacks next Friday night in Hammons Stadium.

Reduce With an Essential Diet By JOE STEVENSON Dog Editor

I have encountered many cases where bitches were bred unsuitably when considerably overweight conceived and whelped when their weight had been substantially reduced.

If, therefore, you should have a bitch which has not been contributing successfully to your breeding program, and she is overweight, it would be worthwhile to try reducing to normal before whelping her off as a non-producer.

Care must be taken in cutting down weight to furnish all elements to an essential diet. It would not be wise, for example, to reduce calcium to the point where the bitch might wind up with clumps in the pelvis, or suffer from a vitamin deficiency which might contribute to some skin disorder or deficiency either in the mother or the pups.

The best method of reducing is exercise - not a sudden, drastic increase that may do as much harm to dog or trainer alike, but a general increase in activity that will condition both the bitch and the owner.

If the bitch is of a sporting breed, shape her up for the hunting season, and use her.

If not, she may, nevertheless be trainable for retrieving, swimming or some healthful exercise at which she can be kept busy for a time without too much stress on the owner's part.

The hoofprints of Lane were in the mud around the north side of the house. Lane followed them to the smokehouse. He dismounted and studied the sign. Marks in the mud indicated that two men had carried something heavy into the smokehouse. The smokehouse door, however, was chained and padlocked.

Lane looked at the six-shooter and stepped around to slant the slug downward. When the weapon roared, the padlock sprang open. Hens in the barnyard uttered stupid cackles. Holstering his smoking gun, Lane jerked the chain through the hole in the thick plank door and pulled the door open, peering into the gloom.

Sheriff Cole asked, "What do you see, Lane?"

"Two quarters of beef," Lane said. He stepped inside the smokehouse, his gaze on the steer hams hanging from a pole near the back wall.

Cole came in behind him. At this moment both of them whirled around, startled by the noise the door made as it slammed shut, placing them in almost total darkness.

Chapter XVII
Sheriff Cole said, "What was that, the wind?" He walked back to the door, which was fashioned of two by sixes and fitted tight. He found the door unyielding as though a fence post or something was braced against it on the outside. Pulling his gun, he pounded with the butt of it.

"Open up here! What are you trying to pull?"

"We're sorry about you, Tom, but that's what you get for keeping such company."

Cole muttered, "That was Sorensen, Lane. Sounds like he neerv laughed in his life." The lawman took a deep breath and lifted his voice. "What company, Sorensen? What in tarnation are you talking about?"

"We're after the killer in there with you. We're going to fix him this time."

Lane said, "You may find out you've got a bear by the tail, too, Sorensen."

"Skunk by the neck," Sorensen said.

Cole said, "Lane hasn't done anything to you fellows. As I recollect it, the only trouble he ever had with you was over in town. He got the worst of it that day. Come on and open his door!"

"Sheriff, my boy Nels is dead. Died from a bullet that gunman put in him. It ain't Nels so much as it's Hildy's young one. I'm going to get old pretty soon. Who's going to provide for Hildy and my grandchildren?"

"Hilda will marry again, Sorensen. A woman as young and pretty as she is won't stay widowed long."

"I probably did put that slug in your son, Sorensen," Lane said, "but I didn't stop him on a public road to do it. That part of it is a lie. He rode the Four Arrow. He shot into our kitchen, and there were women in that room. It's just luck that they're all alive. I'll put a bullet anyone who endangers my womenfolk. You ought to understand that."

Sorensen was silent.

One of the other nesters, farther from the door, said gleefully, "Fellows, he admits it."

Sheriff Cole said, "Lane's telling it straight, Sorensen. And don't worry about Hilda. She'll make out. Silent a moment, he said in angrier tone. Have you fellows gone plumb wild with the county sheriff? Can't he tell you a little respect for this badge I'm wearing? You'll be coming to me with your tails between your legs sometime and I'll remember it."

A hoodman said, "Mr. Sorensen, we wouldn't be here now if Sheriff Cole hadn't helped us. He's always been on our side, and we ain't in no position to have him against us."

There was a silence, as though the sodbusters had withdrawn to discuss it.

Tom Sorensen said after a bit, "We're going to let you come out. Bring Lane's six-shooter. And don't have a gun in your fist. Tom, don't show any fight. You might accidentally get killed and of buckshot, sheriff or no sheriff."

A noise sounded at the door, as though the pole was being removed. Daylight flooded the smokehouse when the door swung out. No one stood on the porch. Lane noticed, and the two horses had been led away.

"Step out, Tom," Sorensen said, and be careful what you do. These fellows mean business."

"You might as well let me to pull Lane's teeth and bring them as bring his gun."

Sorensen's voice had sounded as though he stood at the corner of the building, where he could duck out of sight. He was safe enough with a wall between him and his prisoners. The logs were heavy, but together solid, needing no chinking. Very few of the cracks let daylight seep through. The roof was solidly sheathed, too. Lane saw, and there were thick hand-split shakes on top of the sheathing.

Sorensen had built this place for a vault in which to store his hams and bacon and shoulders, his home-canned fruits and vegetables, as well as for use as a smokehouse. He hadn't intended it for a makeshift boosegrog, but it made a good one, Lane told himself.

Sorensen and the others were getting restless outside.

Cole said to Lane, "Maybe I can calm them down. Maybe I can settle it with them."

"Go ahead, but I'll just hang onto my gun, if you don't care," Lane said.

Cole knuckled his mustache. He said to hose outside, "Easy on the triggers now, fellows."

"Don't do it if you haven't got Lane's gun," Sorensen said. "You wouldn't shoot me."

The door slammed shut. The post banged against the door. Lane Sorensen said, "But we're going to let you cool your heels until you do something about that killer. If you're not big enough to get his gun, you're not big enough to be a sheriff."

Lane heard the sodbusters talking among themselves, and one said, "Let's get Sheriff Cole out of here first. You're not going to do him any good."

Another asked, "Where did you say it was?"

Down yonder, where he was blasting stumps.

There was a silence.

Sorensen said, "Tom, when we open the door, throw out your gun. I don't want out."

Stopped Getting Two Salaries
WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. (AP)—Lawrence Chancellor, B. E. Cunningham, yesterday enjoined Mayor Albin Davis to stop paying him a $300-a-month salary as superintendent of the city's water works.

Cunningham's action came in a suit filed by three Hope residents, who charged that Mitchell, now serving his fifth term as mayor, could not legally hold the position as waterworks superintendent.

The suit contended that the superintendency had been created by the city council while Mitchell was serving as mayor.

The complaint was filed by City Marshal David W. Hynes, Roy J. Doyle and Eddy Gardner.

Except The LORD Build The HOUSE They Labor In Vain That Build It

Without ME YOU can do NOTHING

— so the vine said to the branches. Separated from the vine the branch became dead wood. We boast of our strength and the part we play but oh, how dependent on God we really are. The physical body must have goods we cannot get except they come from God... air, food, water, companionship and even wealth. It is all part of a living universe. By itself all of this would be dead wood. The Christian without Christ becomes fruitless... dead. The human is nothing apart from the divine. God not only created life, He also sustains it. Our health, strength, success are all God's gift. Better stop Mister, long enough to give Him credit. Without Him we can do nothing.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord, let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker and attend services regularly.
